Despite the indefatigable efforts of Despite the indefatigable efforts of the Germans to bring about discord between Japan and the United States, said Viscount Ishii, the two countries are now practically allied, making common front against Germany.

"My mission I consider is a military one in one respect," continued the viscount, "and one of peace in another—military as against the central European system of militarism and domination, but one of peace to be consolidated and reaffirmed as between the l'acific powers, Japan and the United States."

Pacific powers, Japan and the United States."

It was inopportune, went on Count Ishii, to speak of the official aspect of the mission, but dwelling on the non-official side of it, which was none the less important, he desired to emphasize how the entire Japanese nation unanimously and enthusiastically welcomed the decision to serid a mission to America as wise, proper and eminently useful. He was, therefore, proud that part of his duty would be to convey to the one hundred millions of Americans the sympathy and good will of the seventy-five millions of Japanese.

The intercourse between Japan and America had gradually come to assume a more popular character, which he considered a happy augury of the consolidation of a genuine friendship, since that friendship no longer hung perliously on the uncertain caprice of individual statesmen, but rested on the well understood mutual interests and vidual statesmen, but rested on the well understood mutual interests and eciprocal respect of the two nations

The Universal Disturber.

After tracing the benefits of the exchanges of visits between Americans and Japanese. Viscount Ishii.concluded:
"It is gratifying to think of one great benefit with which the war has already endowed Japan and the United States. I mean the disappearance of Germany in this quarter of the world. Now that Germany, the universal disturber of the peace, has been completely and once and for all driven out of her Asiatic bases there remains no longer any one who will venture to cherish the design of estranging Japan from America. Consequently the Pacific henceforth will have the noble destiny to join the two great nations and never to separate them."

Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, a member of the house of peers and a privy councilor, who presided at the dinner, emphasized the nobility and uprightness of the attitude of the United States, which he said was fighting for individual liberty, national freedom, peace and civilization of mankind. The appearance of an American army at the front was certain to breathenew life into the gallantry and patriotism of the allies. When Germany was crushed and the belligerents sat in a council of peace he believed the voice of the United States would have great weight in determining the terms of peace, not for the belligerents only, but for the peace of the whole world.

"A clear and good understanding with the United States is most important for After tracing the benefits of the ex-

Disputes to Be Settled. Former Minister Hicki expressed the Former Minister Hoki expressed the opinion that, in addition to the questions of the day, all questions of any importance existing between the United States and Japan would not escape either settlement or discussion while Viscount Ishli was in America. The mission was a difficult one, because of the vastness of the field and the complexity of the problems to be handled.

the vastness of the field and the complexity of the problems to be handled, he conceded, but the two groups would not be throwing dust into each others' eyes. There would be plain dealing, just and fair, actuated by mutual respect and sympathy.

"We can confidently rely upon the ability of Viscount Ishii, who is an astute, experienced diplomat, to turn the present opportunity to the best advantage for both countries, for no transaction which does not tend to the advantage of all concerned can form the basis of a lasting peace and friendship, said the speaker. "The days of Machiavellian diplomacy are over, especially in the United States, and the best diplomacy to use with such an eminent personality as President Wilson will be to bring the force of truthfulness and sincerity to bear upon the situation."

As former Minister Hioki is attached to the foreign office his speech is regarded as authoritatively indicating the wide scope of the mission.

EMMA GOLDMAN AND BERKMAN CONVICTED

Anarchists Are Found Guilty of Conspiracy and Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, anarchists, were found guilty of conspiracy to obstruct operation of the selective draft law by a jury in the federal court here last night.

Judge Mayer imposed the maximum penalty of two years in the federal penitentiary and a fine of $10,000 upon each of the prisoners.

They started for prison in the custody of federal marshals a few hours after the verdict had been returned.

Berkman will be taken to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Goldman to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo.

Prisoners in a Defiant Mood.

Prisoners in a Defiant Mood.

The prisoners were in defiant mood during their departure. Marshal Mc-Carthy permitted a few friends to tell them good-bye, and as they were being put into a patrol wagon Berkman said:

"We are going straight to Petrograd by way of Atlanta and Jefferson City. We're glad to go."

"Two years and thirty days is a long time," Miss Goldman said, "and judges by then may realize they are not the directing hand of God."

"It is cruelty added to injustice to deny us the privilege of remaining here a few days," she added. "They are spiriting us away without giving us a chance to get fresh clothes. It is such cruel actions as these that will convince people of the righteousness of our cause. our cause.
"We are anarchists now and anarchists we will be when we come out," she shouted as they were driven away.

Two Army Retirements.

Capt. Chalmers G. Hall 10th U. S. Cavalry, having been reported physically disqualified for promotion to the grade of major by reason of disability incident to the service, has been transferred to the retired list as a major. Edward T. McEnany, who has served more than forty years as clerk, superintendent and manager of the cadet store at the Untied States Military Academy, West Point, N. T., on his own application, has been placed on the retired list of the army with the pay of a retired pay clerk, Quartermaster Corps, of the same period of service. That acton was taken in accordance with the provisions of an act of Congress approved August 11, 1916. Capt. Chalmers G. Hall 10th U. S. Cav.
